My goal is to teach the Bible in accordance with how it demands to be taught—for example, study the Bible in an academic way that dishonors the Lord by using poor scholarship, or fail to apply it rightly. My goal is to teach the Bible in a way that demands to be taught—with careful study that upholds its truthfulness and reality. All of this helps me to daily deliver the Word of God in an engaging way to my students.

How would you describe your teaching style and goals?

My goal for students is to make them fall in love with God and His Word. I want them to know how the Scripture connects together as well as its details. My goal for students is to make them fall in love with God and His Word: I want them to know how the Scripture connects together as well as its details. My goal for students is to make them fall in love with God and His Word. I want them to know how the Scripture connects together as well as its details. My goal for students is to make them fall in love with God and His Word. I want them to know how the Scripture connects together as well as its details. My goal for students is to make them fall in love with God and His Word. I want them to know how the Scripture connects together as well as its details.